Non abbiamo più tempo. Occorre che ciascuno di noi con consapevolezza e determinazione assuma la responsabilità di creare un futuro di pace, armonia e benessere. Le azioni politiche, nonostante possano inizialmente esprimere egoismi e vantaggi per i gruppi al potere, inevitabilmente finiscono poi col ricevere il giudizio delle persone, le quali attraverso un processo di empowerment, di presa di coscienza ed azione, diventano veri decisori politici di un comune presente e futuro. La storia così ci insegna. Il Costa Rica ne è un esempio. Un piccolo Paese, fiero e coraggioso. Prima ha lottato per la propria libertà ed indipendenza. Poi i suoi cittadini hanno deciso di vivere senza un apparato difensivo, dichiarandosi neutrali, portando avanti azioni di pace e riponendo fiducia nei

Trattati e Convenzioni internazionali a tutela dei diritti e della dignità delle persone. Non si può vivere separati dall'ambiente. Non ci può essere pace e benessere disprezzando l'aria che respiriamo, l'acqua che beviamo, la terra che ci nutre. E non esiste un luogo incontaminato in cui rifugiarsi. Occorre rimodulare il sistema di vita in virtù del rispetto e della condivisione della Terra. Non esiste «io» possibile. L'individualismo, l'esclusiva ricerca del benessere individuale, la prevaricazione sull'altro, provocate dall'avidità, dalla collera, dalla stupidità ci hanno trascinato in questa situazione. Occorre dare spazio e voce nel cuore di ciascuno di noi alla saggezza, all'inclusione, al «noi» in relazione l'uno con l'altro. Mi scuso con le giovani generazioni, per ciò che stiamo consegnando loro. Sono fiduciosa che attraverso l'educazione, la cultura e il valore della pace sapranno costruire una vita sostenibile, pacifica e felice.

Available for the first time in English, this is the definitive account of the practice of sexual slavery the Japanese military perpetrated during World War II by the researcher principally responsible for exposing the Japanese government's responsibility for these atrocities. The large scale imprisonment and rape of thousands of women, who were euphemistically called "comfort women" by the Japanese military, first seized public attention in 1991 when three Korean women filed suit in a Toyko District Court stating that they had been forced into sexual servitude and demanding compensation. Since then the comfort stations and their significance have been the subject of ongoing debate and intense activism in Japan, much if it inspired by Yoshimi's investigations. How large a role did the military, and by extension the government, play in setting up and administering these camps? What type of compensation, if any, are the victimized women due? These issues figure prominently in the current Japanese focus on public memory and arguments about the teaching and writing of history and are central to efforts to transform Japanese ways of remembering the war. Yoshimi Yoshiaki provides a wealth of documentation and testimony to prove the existence of some 2,000 centers where as many as 200,000 Korean, Filipina, Taiwanese, Indonesian, Burmese, Dutch, Australian, and some Japanese women were restrained for months and forced to engage in sexual activity with Japanese military personnel. Many of the women were teenagers, some as young as fourteen. To date, the Japanese government has neither admitted responsibility for creating the comfort station system nor given compensation directly to former comfort women. This English edition updates the Japanese edition originally published in 1995 and includes introductions by both the author and the translator placing the story in context for American readers.
