Antenna Loop - ciromazzoni

A loop antenna is a radio antenna consisting of a loop or coil of wire, tubing, or other electrical conductor usually fed by a balanced source or feeding a balanced load. Within this physical description there are two distinct antenna types: The large self-resonant loop antenna has a circumference close to one wavelength of the operating frequency and so is resonant at that frequency.

However, for a loop approaching the microwave region, wire size and type become central to the design of the antenna! The formula noted above, for the length of the loop, is probably not going to be very accurate in this regard. Special formulas would be needed to take all the physical variations into account, and predict its performance. (Even fairly wide variations will probably be noticed ...

Loop Antennas and Calculator

•Loop antenna is tuned to a resonance on receive by adjusting the tuning capacitor •Atmospheric noise dominates over receiver noise at HF •Tuning is narrowband, tending to limit received noise •Gain of a loop may be lower than that of other antennas, but what matters is the signal-to noise ratio •Small loop antenna can produce a signal-to-noise ratio that is oftentimes better than a ...
