The ra’ah—seer—prophet can see secret, hidden, and mysterious things. Though a ra’ah prophet will see a vision, what makes this prophet unique in the seer anointing is that he or she sees things that are hidden from the natural eyes of others. They see things that are not easily seen by others and they will see things that others will not see.

Seers and the Realm of Secrets — Destiny Image

So a seer is a prophet, but a prophet isn’t necessarily a seer. It’s not that a seer doesn’t hear God’s voice, or that a prophet doesn’t see him in the spirit. It’s more that each role has an emphasis, a tendency towards one or the other. For some people, it may be obvious whether they are a prophet or a seer.

The Operation of the Seer Anointing Within the overall realm of the prophet lies the particular and distinctive realm of the Seer. The word "seer" describes a particular type of prophet who receives a particular type of prophetic revelation or impartation. The Old Testament uses two words primarily to refer to a seer: ra'ah and chozeh.

"The Prophetic Power of THE SEER" - Elijah List

These prophets carry a hybrid, prophetic, apostolic anointing. They often start quite early in church, as we see Samuel with Eli in the temple. They learn skills in church; they learn the voice of God in church. Samuel heard his voice three times to confirm. These prophets are nurtured by senior apostolic leaders, training and equipping them.
