Trumpet Concerto Mozart

The Trumpet Concerto, K. 47c, is a concerto for trumpet by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart that is apparently now lost. It is Mozart's only concerto written for a brass instrument other than his four horn concertos. History and evidence for existence

Trumpet Concerto (Mozart) - Wikipedia

Leopold Mozart's Trumpet Concerto in D major was completed in 1762, and is now "popular with trumpeters." The work is in two movements: Largo; Allegro moderato; Besides the solo trumpet in D, the concerto is scored for two horns in D and strings. Only the first movement provides room for a cadenza; the Gábor Darvas edition published by Editio Musica gives an 8-measure cadenza which requires no ledger lines but consistently involves small note values.

Leopold Mozart - Concerto in D Major for Trumpet & Organ ...
Mozart wrote K47c when he was very young. It's unlikely that it is of masterpiece quality and very likely it's in the same style as the trumpet concerto that his father wrote. Mozart did not emerge from his mother's womb ready and able to write music like his final Viennese phase! Besides, the trumpet concerto is attested in only one source: A letter from his father to a person outside of their family.
